Description and History of IMS:

INTERNATIONAL MANUFACTURING SERVICES, INC. (IMS) is a privately owned corporation founded by former G.E. executive H. Henry Liiv in 1974. IMS specializes in the production and sales of CHIP RESISTORS attenuators, dividers, filters, thermal management devices and related thick film products. The company has provided products & services to thousands of manufacturers throughout all of the electronics industries. A resistor is a "passive" electronics component which is necessary in all electronics circuits and the Chip Resistor is the most advanced and modern type of resistor designed for use in the automatic and semi-automatic, modern, assembly lines.

IMS presently maintains a customer base of approximately 800 active accounts covering nearly every electronics industry and services most locations in the world. We have approximately 15% of our business serving customers in the medical industry, about 25% in military, homeland security, fire protection and aerospace applications, and the balance in the commercial/industrial market. The commercial/industrial segment includes microwave, RF, contract manufacturers, and telecommunications.

IMS' strength is the ability to be flexible and responsive to customer needs. We offer the highest quality products, shortest lead times and fastest delivery in the industry. IMS supports all segments of the chip resistor markets including requirements competitors do not serve or serve poorly. To keep up with customer needs and market growth, IMS offers a large array of resistor sizes, values, and termination metallization options, to include unique value ranges from 3.3 milli ohms (0.003 ohms) to 1 Terohms (1 Trillion ohms). In addition, IMS maintains internal testing capabilities allowing us to quickly perform the many, varied qualification and production tests requested by customers.

KEY ATTRIBUTES SUMMARY:

Stability: Continuous service to our customers since 1974.

Fully Integrated: Engineering, R&D, Manufacturing, Sales & Administration housed under one roof for quick customer response.

Knowledgeable: Approaching 35 years of resistive products experience.

Superior Service: A staff of qualified experts to assist in problem solving and product selections.

Quick Response: Shortest lead times in the industry. Many products are available in stock for immediate overnight delivery.

Solution Oriented Approach: By working closely with customers, IMS provides timely and cost effective answers to a vast array of unique challenges.
